A General Guide for Post-Secondary Planning

From the Student Services Department

Mr. Adriana Footz

Mrs. Tamia Richardson

This handout is intended as a general guideline and will, by no means, provide all the answers to the questions you have about post-secondary education. We encourage each of you to make an appointment with one of the counsellors to deal with your own special situation. We also encourage you to make use of the material that is available in Student Services. Most application forms for admission and scholarships are available through the Internet.

Watch the bulletin boards in the Student Services area, check the daily announcements, the monthly Bison Tracks and the school's web site for important information regarding admission deadlines, scholarships, new programs, and other information related to post-secondary education.

WEB RESOURCES FOR PLANNING POST SECONDARY LEARNING

The ALIS (Alberta Learning Information Services) website is an excellent source of information for planning beyond high school. Some of the valuable parts of ALIS include the following:

- The ALIS home page: www.alis.alberta.ca
- Learning Clicks: <http://learningclicks.alberta.ca/>
- OCCINFO pages (www.alis.alberta.ca/occinfo): OCCINFO contain hundreds of Occupation Profiles that provide information on many of the occupations in Alberta. The Profiles include information on personal characteristics, after high school training and wage information
- Scholarships and Bursaries (www.alis.alberta.ca/et/fo/scholarships/scholarships.html)
- EDINFO pages (www.alis.alberta.ca/edinfo): EDINFO pages contain information on the hundreds of post-secondary programs available in Alberta. Families can search by program or by school. Please note: ALIS information pages provide links to post-secondary programs – students should use the links to institution web pages for the most up-to-date information.

- CAREERinsite pages: (www.alis.alberta.ca/CAREERinsite/): A five step process for career planning that includes many activities students can use when planning for life after high school

Apprenticeship: (www.tradesecrets.alberta.ca) is an excellent site that gives you information on over 50 trades in Alberta.

Other valuable after high-school planning web sites include the following:

- YouthLink (<http://youth.gc.ca>): A web site organized by the Government of Canada that includes ideas about post-secondary finance, career information tools, exchange programs as well as national and international work experience programs
- The Directory of Canadian Universities (www.aucc.ca): The web site of the Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada. The site includes information on over 10 000 post-secondary programs in Canada.
- www.ScholarshipsCanada.com: A fairly comprehensive scholarship portal. Students can search through their database to find scholarships, student awards, bursaries and grants.
- www.yconic.com: You can register for free on this website and it will match you with scholarships for which you might be eligible.

APPLICATION TO POST-SECONDARY EDUCATION PROGRAMS IN THE EDMONTON AREA

Most post-secondary institutions in the province are using the online application system ApplyAlberta. This portal allows students to apply to multiple post-secondary institutions. Students create an account with a secure login. For more information and to create an account, visit www.applyalberta.ca

It is a good idea to apply early as many programs work on a “first qualified, first served” basis. Students are encouraged to consider applying to more than one institution to increase chances of acceptance in at least one program.

ADMISSION TO POST-SECONDARY PROGRAMS

All post-secondary institutions specify minimum admission requirements for each of the programs that are listed on their web sites. If a particular program is over-subscribed, usually students with the highest marks are selected and entrance requirements can go up significantly. It is important for you to find out the exact requirements for the program you want to enter.

STUDENT FOR A DAY

Most post-secondary institutions in the Edmonton offer Student for a Day programs where you can meet with a program advisor, attend a class in an area that interests you, take a campus tour and have lunch with a mentor.

TRANSCRIPTS

All post-secondary institutions, as well as sponsors of scholarships and bursaries require transcripts. Check to see if they will accept a school certified copy of your marks (available from one of the counselors) or if they want an official transcript issued from Alberta Education. If you apply through ApplyAlberta, your transcript will be automatically sent to participating institutions. Student requests for Alberta Official Transcripts of High School Achievement can be made online using myPass. <https://mypass.alberta.ca/>
